changing organizations from the inside out

Change your mind...
create new results.

"I can see visible changes... across the team which is reflected in the volume and quality of ideas generated and the results being delivered...our team is on track and focused to deliver against our vision and strategy.

– Marie St. Quinton, EMEAR Sales Enablement Team Manager, Cisco Systems

Organizations are realizing that employees are their greatest asset.

This workshop, developed by Dr. Joe Dispenza, neuroscientist and best-selling author, is an experience like none other. It is designed to help develop your staff into a creative, committed and fully-engaged team.

The "Change Your Mind...Create New Results" 8-hour workshop uses a dynamic combination of science, videos, and in-class practices to teach you how to maximize the most powerful tool available: your brain. As a result, participants will make significant shifts in perspectives and possibility thinking. These shifts translate into increased professional performance and collective organizational change.

With this workshop, and recommended group coaching, you will:

- Learn how the brain works and why this is important for change
- Set intentions for yourself and your organization, becoming more productive and less distracted
- Apply practices, based on neuroscience, to create pathways to new potentials becoming more open to new ideas and less stuck in the past
- Experience how to mentally rewire your brain to be more creative and trusting, less rigid and fearful

Dr. Joe Dispenza, a global lecturer, has worked closely with master trainers and curriculum design experts to create a program specifically designed to facilitate organizational change. Through a rigorous application, selection, and certification process, Dr. Dispenza has personally certified trainers to deliver this work.
